1. Read the dialogue and answer the questions. (20 pts)

Psychologist: Good afternoon, Mark. How are you feeling today?

Mark: Hi. I've been feeling really overwhelmed lately.

Psychologist: I'm sorry to hear that. What's been causing you to feel overwhelmed?

Mark: Well, I have a lot of assignments and exams coming up, and I feel like I can't keep up with everything.

Psychologist: It sounds like you're under a lot of pressure. Have you been able to talk to anyone about how you're feeling?

Mark: Not really. I don't want to bother anyone with my problems.

Psychologist: Mark, it's important to reach out for support when you're struggling. Talking about your feelings can help lighten the load. Let's work together to find some strategies to manage your stress.

Mark: Okay, that sounds good. Thank you.

a. What is Mark feeling overwhelmed about?

b. Why does Mark hesitate to talk to anyone about his problems?

c. What does the psychologist suggest to Mark to help manage his stress?

d. How does Mark respond to the psychologist's suggestion?

2. Imagine you have a canvas in front of you, but instead of paintbrushes, you have a collection of emotions. Today, we'll be creating a mood mosaic using words! Choose one of the following prompts to inspire your writing: (20 pts)

1. Musical Muse: Pick a song that resonates with your current mood. It could be a song that makes you feel happy, sad, energetic, or anything in between. Write a short story or poem inspired by the song's lyrics, melody, or overall feeling.

2. Painterly Palette: Think about a painting you have seen before. Describe the scene in the painting and let it influence the mood of your writing. Is the painting peaceful or chaotic? Bright and cheerful or dark and mysterious?

3. Photographic Prompt: Think about a photograph that captures a specific mood. This could be a photo you took yourself, one you found online, or even one from a magazine. Write a story or poem based on the emotions you see in the photograph.

Bus Scare in Local Town

Local News - A school bus carrying 20 children was involved in a minor accident this morning on Elm Street. According to reports, the bus driver braked suddenly to avoid a dog running across the road. Luckily, no one was seriously injured. Several children were shaken up by the incident and received checkups by medical personnel at the scene. The parents of the children were called and informed about the situation. The bus itself sustained minor damage to the front bumper. Police are investigating the exact cause of the accident and reminding dog owners to keep their pets on leashes near busy streets.

Imagine you are talking to a friend who hasn't heard about the accident. Briefly retell the news story in your own words. (20 pts)

Remember:

- Use your own words as much as possible
- Focus on the most important details of the news story.
- Make sure your friend understands what happened.
